innovation,
for over 30 years

A history that goes back three generations in the mechanical and tapware industries has enabled us to develop extensive experience in the sector and gave us the idea of developing an outdoor product that encompasses design, technology and the use of a noble material: marine grade stainless steel.

Over the years, we have specialised in manufacturing bespoke designer accessories for private homes, spas, hotels, beach resorts and boats. After the first outdoor shower lines, which were characterised by an elegant style and high technical quality, we also focused our production on indoor shower lines and accessories, which proved to be very successful. This development was then extended to the wellness sector and fully tailor-made products. Continuous innovation and evolution of our production processes have made this possible, allowing complete control of the supply chain.

The values that have created a history of excellence

Made in Italy

High-end Italian manufacturing not only means having direct control over the entire production process but also involves the combination of vivid creativity and skills that have made the "Made in Italy" brand famous throughout the world for its design and quality. Values that define the excellence of our products, but also the quality of our services from production to sales.

The value of stainless steel 316

We manufacture our products with the best components and materials, using AISI 316L steel of Italian origin, a durable, non-toxic and recyclable material which, together with water-saving systems, are part of a solid corporate vision of sustainable development. If requested, we also provide certification of the raw materials for each product.

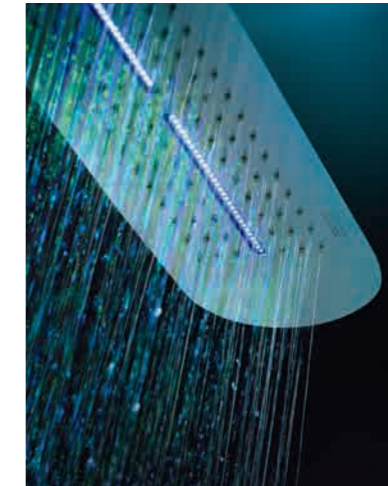

Craftsmanship and attention to detail

Many years of technical and practical experience in the plumbing and metalworking industries has resulted in extreme attention to detail and the ability to offer high levels of customisation. Our philosophy is to transform raw material into a crafted product of excellence, and it is measured above all in customer satisfaction.

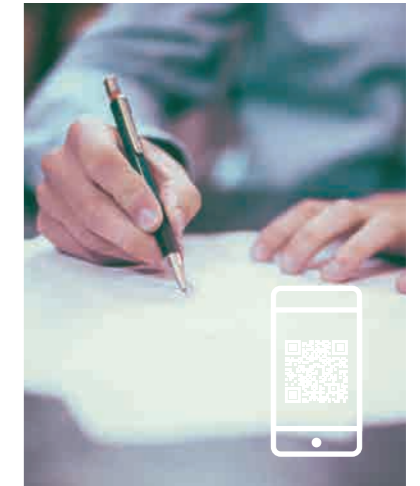

Taylor-made production

Our design centre can create fully customised products in every part, even for large-scale production. A dedicated and trained team of technicians can analyse each specific request and propose the best solutions to meet the customer's needs, who can decide on dimensions, finishes and use to obtain the required product.

Design and inspiration

Design, style, ergonomics and feelings play a key role in our production. Creating a successful project means taking into account the technological and stylistic innovations that not only have to meet technical and production requirements, but also enhance materials and shapes that make a product unique when it becomes a piece of furniture.

Assistance and guarantee

By directly controlling production, we can certify and guarantee all articles and components for 3 years. Each product is marked with a unique QR code that attests to its high quality and value, which can be verified at any time. Moreover, the customer can rely on a fast and professional after-sales service by dealing directly with the company's technicians.

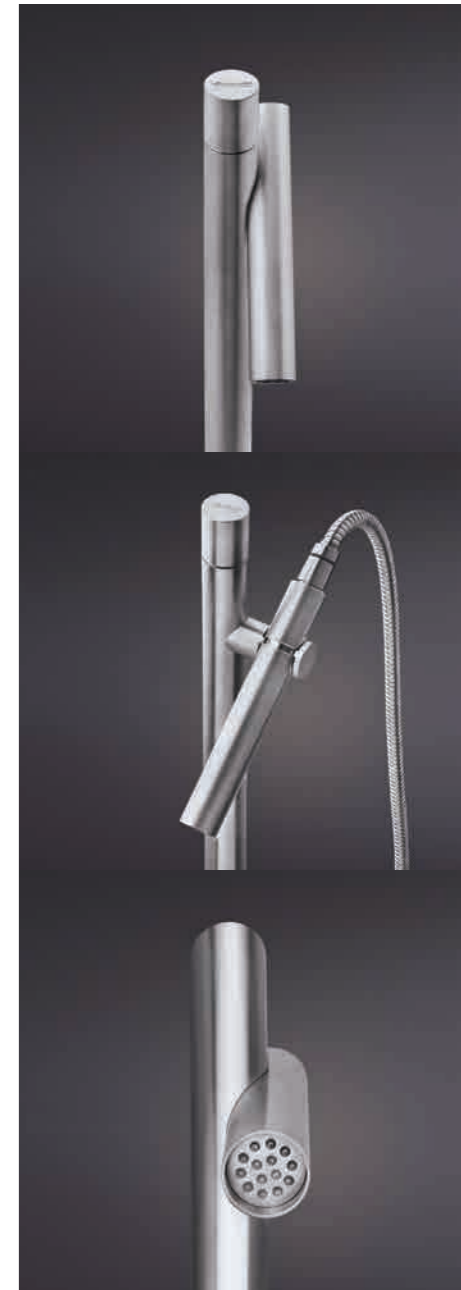

Stella represents the innovative proposal by Ama, a collection that combines the internal environment with the external one, where functionality meets aesthetics.

Our showers reveal all their beauty and their technical potential in outdoor environments

Outdoor showers are designed, manufactured and tested to withstand all weather and usage conditions, which is why they are built with corrosion-resistant materials, like 316L stainless steel.

Solar shower columns, in particular, represent a green choice given that they allow you to use water heated by the sun, reducing consumption.

Thanks to the black powder coating made on the column, the water inside of the tank heats up quickly.

Taylor-made

Considerable experience and professionalism combined with a knowledge of production processes are essential elements for creating standard product variants or bespoke items, from design to the manufacture of small or large batches. The use of high-quality materials, the study of innovative solutions and the collaboration with reliable partners, allows us to develop bespoke solutions with attention to detail and guaranteed aesthetics and functionality.

Furthermore, upon request, it is possible to customize the products in different RAL finishes, as well as combine our anti-ice system, which allows people to use the required shower all year round and protect it during the coldest periods of the year.

PVD finishes

Thanks to the use of 316L stainless steel for its creation, the Atena line is synonymous of sustainability and resistance. The wide arch shape enhances the design, also allowing you to have a greater freedom of movement under the shower. Atena shower columns can be painted in several finishes or even with PVD treatments in nuances such as gun metal, copper and gold.

Atena

Made entirely of 316 stainless steel, this innovative showerhead, produced by Ama, completes the Aurora lines in the catalog as well as, proposed individually, it elevates aesthetics and performance of existing solutions. During the creation of this 250 mm diameter shower head, special attention was also paid to functionality and features, as Aurora316 was designed and made inspectable.

This innovative showerhead can also be customized according to the project and can be offered in all painted finishes, including all RAL shades on request, but also PVD coatings.
